

*Joke of the Week*TM

The finals of the NCAA Poetry Contest comes down to Stanford and Texas A&M.

Each finalist is given a word and two minutes to compose a four-line poem that contains the word. The word is “Timbuktu.”

Stanford recites first

“Slowly across the desert sand
Trekking the dusty caravan.
Men on camels, two by two Destination -- Timbuktu.”

The crowd goes crazy!!! How, they wonder, can Aggie top that???

Then Aggie steps up and says

“Tim and me, a-huntin' went.
Met three girls in a pop-up tent.
They was three, we was two,
So I bucked one and Timbuktu.”